OVERVIEW

The World Water Congress is one of the largest and most influential global events bridging water science and policy, bringing together policymakers, researchers, practitioners, civil society, and private sector leaders. Since its inception in 1973, the International Water Resources Association (IWRA) has convened this prestigious event every three years in diverse locations worldwide, fostering dialogue and collaboration across regions and disciplines.

With 19 successful editions, the Congress has become a platform where leaders from international organisations, governments, academic institutions, businesses, and civil society converge to share their expertise, experiences, and solutions on pressing water challenges.

The Ministry of Agriculture and Forestry of Türkiye and the International Water Resources Association (IWRA) are jointly organizing the XX World Water Congress, from October 4 to 8, 2027, at the Halic Congress Center in Istanbul, under the theme, “SMART, RESILIENT, CIRCULAR, INCLUSIVE”.

As one of the world's largest and most prestigious events dedicated to water, the Congress held under the Agriculture and Forestry of Türkiye, will explore innovative solutions and adaptive strategies for water resources in an increasingly changing world. It serves as a leading international platform, bringing together key stakeholders from across the water sector.

In parallel with the main programme, an exhibition space for companies and institutions in the water and sustainable development sector will be hosted at the ‘EXPO Area, covering approximately 2,200 m² and located near the Halic Congress Centre in Istanbul.
